“I am most grateful for finding out what it is like to have a real home. It is not just about being in a barn or a safe pasture. Although I never had those basic things in my entire life until I came here. I was never surrounded by kindness and caring. At first, I didn’t know what to do with it. I didn’t trust it. Because my experience in life was that if it felt good it wouldn’t last and would be taken away. But now, my life is different. I am still learning to trust this. But now I am committed to being here. And I am willing to step up and say that I am grateful to be home. I never want to leave this home. I have found something amazing and I am grateful for every single second. Every caring touch. Every tender word. Every gentle interaction that comes my way. I love it all. And I am grateful to have been given this opportunity.”
