"I am most grateful for a sense of humor. Sometimes you humans take things way too seriously. You can count on me to try to shake things up a bit. Sometimes I want to interrupt you when you are looking at your phone and not paying attention to the world around you. People think I'm pushy. But I say I'm just getting your attention in whatever way I need to for you to wake up. My donkey friends and I went through some tough stuff with people who just didn't understand. But now, here we are living in a place where we are honored. It is a big difference. We never take a day of this for granted. So when some of our human friends are stuck in their heads and not paying attention, I feel it is our duty to wake you up. Look at this beautiful world around you. Even if you feel things aren't going your way right now, being grateful for just one thing can change your day. In fact, it can change your whole outlook on life. Life is a miracle. You are a miracle. So, be who you are supposed to be. I believe in you."
